

Fall 2018 Franke Lectures: Heidegger's Being and Time

The Whitney Humanities Center is pleased to announce the Fall 2018 Franke Lectures in the Humanities, "Heidegger's Being and Time." This semester's series has been organized in conjunction with the Yale College seminar taught by Martin Hägglund. Taylor Carman will deliver the opening lecture, "Narrative and Pictorial Truth," on Tuesday, November 6, at 5 pm.

Taylor Carman is Professor of Philosophy at Barnard College, Columbia University. He is the author of Heidegger's Analytic: Interpretation, Discourse, and Authenticity in Being and Time and Merleau-Ponty and coeditor of The Cambridge Companion to Merleau-Ponty. He has written on topics in phenomenology, existentialism, and contemporary European and analytical philosophy and is currently writing a book on the history and critique of metaphysics in Heidegger's later works.

Other guest speakers and lectures in the series include

Robert Pippin, "Radical Finitude in the Anti-Idealist Modern European Philosophical Tradition" Tuesday, November 13, 5 pm

Robert Pippin is Evelyn Stefansson Nef Distinguished Service Professor in the Committee on Social Thought, the Department of Philosophy, and the College at the University of Chicago. He is the author of Kant's Theory of Form; Hegel's Idealism: The Satisfactions of Self-Consciousness; Modernism as a Philosophical Problem; Hegel's Practical Philosophy; After the Beautiful: Hegel and the Philosophy of Pictorial Modernism; Interanimations: Receiving Modern German Philosophy, as well as a book on philosophy and literature, Henry James and Modern Moral Life, and three books on film. Hegel's Realm of Shadows: Logic as Metaphysics in The Science of Logic is forthcoming. Pippin is a past winner of the Mellon Distinguished Achievement Award in the Humanities, a fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences and the American Philosophical Society, and was recently elected a member of the German National Academy of Sciences, Leopoldina.

Robert Brandom, "A Spirit of Trust: Magnanimity and Agency in Hegel's Phenomenology" Tuesday, November 27, 5 pm

Robert Brandom is Distinguished Professor of Philosophy and Fellow at the Center for Philosophy of Science at the University of Pittsburgh. He is the author of thirteen books, including Making It Explicit: Reasoning, Representing, and Discursive Commitment. His most recent book, A Spirit of Trust, on Hegel's Phenomenology, is forthcoming. He is a fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences and the British Academy as well as a recipient of the Mellon Distinguished Achievement in the Humanities Award, and the Anneliese Maier Forschungspreis from the Alexander von Humboldt Stiftung.

Brandom has delivered the John Locke lectures Lectures at Oxford (published as Between Saying and Doing), the Hempel lectures at Princeton, the Townsend and Howison lectures at Berkeley, and the Woodbridge lectures at Columbia. He has held fellowships at All Souls College Oxford and the Center for Advanced Studies in the Behavioral Sciences at Stanford, and was Leibniz Professor at the University of Leipzig.

Steven Crowell, “Methodological Atheism: An Essay in Second-Person Phenomenology”

Tuesday, December 4, 5 pm

Steven Crowell is Joseph and Joanna Nazro Mullen Professor of Humanities and Professor of Philosophy at Rice University, where he has taught since receiving his PhD in philosophy from Yale in 1981. Crowell’s research focuses on Continental philosophy since Kant, with an emphasis on the classical phenomenological tradition. He is the author of Husserl, Heidegger, and the Space of Meaning: Paths Toward Transcendental Phenomenology and Normativity and Phenomenology in Husserl and Heidegger. He is the editor of the Cambridge Companion to Existentialism and, with Jeff Malpas, Transcendental Heidegger. With Sonja Rinofner-Kreidl, Crowell coedits the journal Husserl Studies. His current research centers on “second-person phenomenology” (our experience of being the addressee of normative claims) and on the relation between meaning and metaphysics.

All events will be held in the WHC auditorium and are free and open to the public.

The lectures are made possible by the generosity of Richard and Barbara Franke, and are intended to present important topics in the Humanities to a wide and general audience.
